Meetings of many of the local divisions of the Produce Exchange will be held throughout the Peninsula before the season opens for the shipment of produce, for the consideration of questions looking to the best interests of the farmers. At these meetings the business manager and other officers of the Exchange will be on hand to present their views and offer suggestions in regard to the preparation, handling and shipment of our produce to market. The package into which it is to be shipped is o'clock. to be especially considered and the advantages of a standard barrel, uniform in size and attractive in appearance, is to be urged. These meetings in fact, it is generally understood. are to be held with the view of bringing the farmers in closer touch with the workings of the Exchange, to the end that mistakes in the past may be corrected and improvements adopted in many ways which are most likely to secure for the farmers the highest market price for their produce. To these meetings all farmers are invited, whether members of the Exchange or not, and a full attendance is hoped for and expected.

the statements are correct recently published to the effect, that he would be in the race for the n mination for Governor. There is so sthing though in his denial, even if it, has not yet authorized anyone to speak for him in the matter, which seems to indicate that like Barkis, "he is will-"I am not a candidate," said Mr.

In the grave yard softly sleeping, Where the flowers gently wave, Lies the one we loved so dearly, In a lone and silent grave.

How we miss her coming footsteps, How we miss her everywhere, The home is not what it used to be, Since my dear aunt's not there.

Oh! how patiently she waited, How she bore her earthly pain, But O' God! we know she did not, Suffer here on earth in vain.

Dearest aunt we know you're waiting.
For us on the Heavenly shore.
There we all will strive to meet you
When our work on earth is oe'r.

By her loving niece, Viola Kellam,

In sad but loving remembrance of my dear husband and father, Lloyd W. Mears, who died February 21,1906. One year, oh my dearest can it be?
The weary months I mourn for thee,
And yet it feels so fresh, the pain,
I count them o'er and o'er again.

Once my home was bright and happy, Oh, how sad and dreary to-day! For my dear and loving husband, Has forever passed away.

Ah, vacant is the fireside chair, The smile that won, no longer there, From door and hall, from porch and

The echo of that voice is gone That loved arm on which I rested, Is no longer at my side, And the voice I loved to follow. Never more shall be my guide.

Yet there is a comfort that comes to me, Amid all my strife and care. When Jesus calls me home to Heaven, We will meet each other there. Darling father we will meet you, We will meet you by and by, In that land where there is no parting,

We will never say good by. By his wife and two children.
